PEOPLE, STATES & FEAR
An Agenda for International Security
Studies in the Post-Cold War Era

Barry Buzan

Pub Date: March 2007
ISBN: 9780955248818
Price: £31.00 €36.00

BISA PRICE £21.00

The second edition of this widely acclaimed book takes as its main theme the question of how states and societies pursue freedom from threat in an environment in which competitive relations are inescapable across the political, economic, military, societal and environmental landscapes. Barry Buzan argues that the concept of security is a versatile, penetrating and useful way to approach the study of international relations. The ECPR Classics edition includes a new introduction from the author placing this classic text within a current context.

CAUSES OF WAR
The Struggle for Recognition

Thomas Lindemann

Pub Date: October 2010
ISBN: 9781907301018
Price: £21.00 €25.00

BISA PRICE £15.00

"An excellent book on the neglected topic of recognition in international relations. This solid and historically rich analysis of international violence from an identity-based perspective synthesizes work from Political Science, Sociology, and Philosophy in French, German, and English in a novel perspective." Pierre Allan, University of Geneva

THE RETURN OF THE STATE OF WAR

Dario Battistella

Pub Date: June 2008
ISBN: 9780955248856
Price: £27.00 €33.00

BISA PRICE £15.00

The Return of the State of War is an attempt to understand the war waged by the United States against Saddam Hussein in 2003. Dario Battistella claims that the war signifies the return of Hobbesian values, showing that the Lockean norms, which America itself had worked to consolidate since joining the international system, have progressively been abandoned by the American administration. The author evaluates the impact of this unusual American behaviour upon the evolution of the contemporary international system and analyses the different causes that might explain the decision to launch Operation Iraqi Freedom.

SYSTEM AND PROCESS IN INTERNATIONAL POLITICS

Morton A. Kaplan

Pub Date: April 2005
ISBN: 9780954796624
Price: £24.00 €29.00

BISA PRICE £8.00

"Every profession is occasionally inflicted with challenges that loom large... in economics these would include Keynes General Theory, Hicks's Value and Capital, [and] Samuelson's Foundations... In short, Kaplan's book is a must." Charles Kindleberger, World Politics

BEYOND THE NATION-STATE

Ernst B. Haas

Pub Date: August 2008
SBN: 9780955248870
Price: £36.00 €42.00

BISA PRICE £14.00

Beyond the Nation-State contains the most complete and definitive statement of "neo-functionalism" – the theory of transnational integration for which Ernst B. Haas is best known. Focusing on the International Labor Organization (ILO), Beyond the Nation-State was one of the first efforts to analyse the dynamics and effects of a global international institution and a classic in comparative politics and international relations. First published in 1964, this edition includes a new introduction by Peter M. Haas, John G. Ruggie, Philippe Schmitter and Antje Wiener.

COERCING, CONSTRAINING AND SIGNALLING

Francesco Giumelli

Pub Date: May 2011
ISBN: 9781907301209
Price: TBA

"In his important contribution to the field of UN and EU targeted sanctions, Francesco Giumelli provides an excellent conceptual account of the challenges this strategic tool confronts in today's world. He does so by providing both an excellent theoretical as well as methodological analysis, especially with regard to strategies of coercing, constraining and signalling. What's more is that Dr. Giumelli also provides scientific recommendations for how to move the field forward. In short then, this book should be a required reading for anyone interested in the state of the art of sanctions." Dr Mikael Eriksson, Swedish Defence Research Agency

Call for papers goes live on BISA and ISA websites 24th June 2011

Deadline for panel and paper submissions 1st September 2011

The global financial crisis, continued concerns over terrorism, the projection of Western power into Iraq and Afghanistan, the growing significance of China and the emergence of the G20 states as major players, and political revolution in the Middle East, are amongst the challenges shaping contemporary international relations. Power is changing. Alliances are being reconfigured, and institutions are evolving. Security challenges are being articulated in a variety of areas including through technological change, health, natural disasters, and food scarcity.

In addressing these issues, International Studies is characterised by diversity. This includes differences in how global challenges are understood. Divergent methodological approaches shape the ways in which the substance of these global challenges is analysed. In turn, competing understandings lead to academics offering distinct responses to pressing issues in contemporary global politics.

We invite papers and panels which explore diversity in the discipline, particularly in relation to how competing approaches define and understand contemporary global challenges, and how those competing approaches have led to quite different proposals for responding to those challenges.

We especially welcome proposals for panels which consist of a diverse grouping of scholars from various countries and regions, from different career stages and which represent both genders. Joint submissions from ISA Sections and BISA working groups are warmly encouraged.

Proposals that address the following questions are invited:

- How do diverse perspectives in International Studies help us to understand and respond to contemporary global challenges?
- Are there regional divides in International Studies? What impact does this have on how contemporary global challenges are substantively understood? Does it lead to considerable differences in the responses proposed to face such challenges?
- In what ways does representation from the Global South strengthen approaches, understandings and solutions to contemporary challenges?
- Is there substantial theoretical diversity in the discipline? In what ways might this help or hinder International Studies in responding to contemporary global challenges?
- What is the research agenda of International Studies? How is this reflected in teaching? How does teaching shape our research?
- Can multi-disciplinarity improve our understandings of contemporary global challenges? Does engagement with other disciplines also present difficulties for International Studies?
